

Opening of Job Center Delayed

Five men being considered for the post of superintendent of the Southern California Regional Occupational Center were in Torrance yesterday for interviews.

The interviews were conducted by the six-man joint powers board which will operate the center.

BERT M. LYNN, president of the Torrance Board of Education and the Torrance representative on the joint powers board, disclosed plans for the interviews Monday. He told members of the Torrance board the occupational center will not be opened in September, as initially planned.

Lynn said the opening has been delayed because "we have no leadership" in the planning for the center. He said the new superintendent will be able to provide administrative leadership to develop a facility and a program.

Trumpeter, Sextet Will Appear Here

Trumpeter Al Hirt will appear with his all-star sextet at El Camino's Murdock Stadium Wednesday at 8:30.

Hirt describes himself as a "pop commercial musician with a successful format." His fans view his music as a combination of swing, jazz, and Dixieland.

Tickets are currently on sale in the campus bookstore. Reserved seats are $4 and $3.25. General admission is $2.50.

THE CENTER, established under a joint powers agreement involving the Torrance, Palos Verdes, Inglewood, South Bay, El Segundo, and Centinela Valley school districts, is being planned to offer occupational training to high school students and adults.

Students who attend the center will learn skills necessary to get a job in the immediate area, Lynn said.

HONOR BUILDER... Ralph Garland (center), prominent Torrance builder, accepts Balanced Power Award for outstanding contributions to the Southland building industry from Cal Criley (left) and George Milne of Southern California Gas Co. Garland has completed three developments in the city in recent months and is now building 36 homes in the area near 182nd Street and Crenshaw Boulevard. He is a past president of the Young Home Builders Association.

The theme for World Red Cross Day is "Protect Health—Prevent Accidents—Save Life Through Your Red Cross."
